Acknowledgments

This project took the enormous extent of work, dedication, and research. This would not have been possible if we don't have the assistance of many people and we are extremely fortunate to have got this all along the completion of our project work. At first, all thanks to Al-Mighty Allah who gave us the ability and strength to complete the project, and then we would like to thank the crucial role of our parents for their support trust and members of our institute Bahria University, Karachi Campus for their cooperation and encouragement We would like to give a special gratitude to our final year project supervisor, Engr.Faiz ul haque zeya, whose continuous involvement, guidance and encouragement, helped us to build up this project.

Abstract

We are building a search engine which would provide people better facility to purchase online what they want to by visiting our website which will surely provide them results on the basis of customers reviews and ratings which will definitely help them to buy product what they want to buy at that moment.

When a user clicks on google to find the product he want to buy the Google displays so many results that user get annoyed and sometime they can't find their required product. Our system will Insha Allah help to remove this problem and provide their required quality product in just one click.
