Secondly, the institute Bahria University give a superior platform to enhance and deliver the knowledge in a form of thesis/project, which helps to convey the updated insight over current matter.

To perform a thesis or a project effectively there is a constant support of a supervisor that guides us in each and every step. So, I am very glad and thankful to my supervisor Naveed N. Siddiqui for their kind assistance and acknowledgment.

Furthermore, the overall faculty and students of Bahria University is very supportive, as they deliver a better understanding while gathering data within university or among their contacts by spreading the thesis questionnaire.

Finally, the constant support of parents and family members is very necessary while accomplishing this objective. Therefore I am obliged to every single individual for their acknowledgment and support, especially to my parents who gave me all the resource and support that is necessary for completing the project.

Abstract

Purpose

The main aim behind doing this research work is to gather and extensive and authentic information about emerging pattern of impulse buying. As the retail industry is growing rapidly, it becomes very necessary to recognize the occurrence of IB and how it get affected by Consumer Traits and Situational Factors.

Methodology & Design

It's an Empirical Research done by gathering the responses of 450 respondents (retail customers) from Karachi through spreading well-constructed questionnaire data has been collected. Gathered data statistically analyzed and validated by using the tool of ADANCO.

Findings

The study shown the significant relationship of two variables of situational factors, i.e. store environment and motivational activities by retailers that impact Impulse Buying. Furthermore rest of the variables have found to be insignificant on the basis of statistical analysis.

Limitations

Study s having various limitations as the time frame is limited and just restricted to te retail sector. The gathered data belongs to the respondents of Karachi and results are not necessarily same in other region as per the mindset and cultural differences.

Recommendations

In future there will be a strong need to incorporate further factors that lies under the category of store environment and motivational activities by retailers and gather their impact on impulse buying. Similarly retail mangers can use this study to meet the promises with customers.
